THE VICIOUS BLACK PANTHER

George Bistany, wild animal collector, returns from a trip into the wilds of Africa and reports that the black panther is the most desperate and vicious of wild animals; and any man who was properly brought up will find that statement rather comforting.

For the man who was properly brought up, of course, read Kipling's Jungle Book as a boy; and no reader of Kipling's Jungle Books ever failed to put Bagheera, the black panther, in his shrine of notables.

Bagheera was perhaps the most fascinating animal in those great books. Kipling, the 30-foot python, was a great creature, to be sure; and Shere Khan, the villainous tiger, was an omen and a portent of the jungle's terror. But Bagheera—black as a midnight shadow, graceful as a kitten and dangerous as a bolt of lightning—Bagheera was the best of the lot.

Now it would be just our luck, in this day of image-matching, to have some naturalist report that the black panther was really a coward and a sneak thief.

But not Mr. Bistany finds the black panther just as dreadful as we had always thought him. And every man who reads the Jungle Books will be grateful.

THE MENACE OF NOISE

The Chicago health commissioner, Dr. Arnold M. Kegel, has taken up a subject that we have been yearning for years to see some official tackle. He has issued a blast at the great volume of unnecessary noise that pervades all of our cities.

Most of this noise, he says, is unnecessary, and could be avoided by the use of proper equipment or the exercise of a little forethought. But we are so used to it that we do not bother to figure out ways of eliminating it.

Yet noise, Dr. Kegel points out, is an actual menace to health. It seriously impairs efficiency, reduces the amount of rest one gets during sleeping hours and may even cause an actual breaking down of the nervous system.

A few years ago every city assumed that an overhanging smoke cloud was a necessary evil. Then health officials got busy, and now the smoke clouds are being eliminated. The same thing—let us hope devoutly—may happen with the city's noise. It is a harmful thing that can be got rid of if we set ourselves to the job.

WHAT'S BACK OF SUPERSTITION?

While the Norwegian liner Sud Americano was crossing the Atlantic the other day a cat fell overboard. The captain stopped the ship, a lifeboat put out, the cat was rescued, taken down to the engine room, dried off and petted—and the ship proceeded.

The sailors, it is explained, thought the loss of the cat would "jinx" the ship.

A foolish superstition, of course—but what started it? And what is the origin of a hundred other superstitions? Do you like to sit down to a meal with 12 other people? Or walk under a ladder? Or have a black cat stroll across your path? Or start a trip on a Friday? Or have someone watch your hand as you play cards?

No reason for those? There's a reason for everything. I find traces back the origin of every superstition you'll find facts that aren't so unreasonable after all.

Routine work and passing accounts took up a part of the meeting, but most time was devoted to discussion on the improvement of the roads. The council has adopted an extensive program of road improvements this year and are spending much larger amounts of money on the roads than it has ever spent. The district invested this spring in a large new grader of the latest type, and they made a contract with Trotter and Perrin to grade a large mileage of the roads in the district. It is the aim of the council of the Bright municipality to make the roads in that district the best in Southern Alberta.

"OUTCAST" IS A NEW TRIUMPH FOR CORINNE GRIFFITH—GIVES A HUMAN CONVINCING PERFORMANCE AS GIRL OF THE STREETS — EDMUND LOWE CAPITAL—THE DAVIES STAGE PLAY HAS BEEN MADE INTO EXCELLENT SCREEN ENTERTAINMENT

It is always a severe test of a motion picture player's ability and art to bring to the silver screen a role previously created on the speaking stage, especially if that role has become identified as the high point in a legitimate actress's career. But Corinne Griffith need have no qualms about having stepped into the stellar role of the screen version of "Outcast," the Henry Hubert Davies play, which first brought Elsie Ferguson into overnight fame. If Miss Griffith were not already in the front ranks of the cinema's dramatic stars, she, too, would have gained her spurs by the excellent performance she gives in "Outcast" at the Empress Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

DELIGHTFUL PAIR ENTERTAIN CROWD WITH LOVE STORY—RICHARD ARLEN AND MARY BILIAN AT BEST IN "THE MAN I LOVE" AT EMPRESS MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Both Mary Brian and Richard Arlen have given promise of great things in the past, but in "The Man I Love," they realize a glorious fulfillment. The story, dealing with the love affair of a boy and girl who go to New York in answer to an ambitious urge and find only disappointment, is filled with the adventure in which youth revels. Arlen as the boy lover is great and, as the young man filled with the pride of achievement, he is superb.

A shining thread of humor, supplied by Harry Green and Jack Oakie, keeps the laughs pulsing throughout the piece. They are supreme comedy men. Backstage, the charming in a minor role and Pat O'Malley, Leslie Fenton and the rest of the cast deserve the highest praise.

"PHANTOM CITY" IS WESTERN FILM WITH MYSTERY BACKGROUND

A western picture with a mystery background is the coming attraction at the Empress Theatre beginning next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. "The Phantom City," a story of the old western mining towns, and more, is a story of a town which was built on a hillside, and in which the people lived in a world of mystery and danger. The story is a thrilling one, and the picture is a masterpiece of the genre.

A real old mining town in northern California, about twenty miles from Yosemite Valley and right in the center of the country Bret Harte made famous was the location. A. L. Buffington, author of the story, has provided Ken with ample opportunity to display his spectacular horsemanship and daring skill in the saddle, and with this as a word-spoken background that lends plenty of thrills into the gripping situations. Also showing: "The Red Talkies." First time in Macleod—Singing and Dancing on the screen—A Vaudeville Entertainment. Don't miss the TALKIES.

REGULAR MEETING OF MACLEOD TOWN COUNCIL

The Macleod Town Council had a short meeting on Monday evening, the docket of business being a short one.

Mayor J. W. McDonald, K. C., presided and the councillors present were Messrs. J. Swinerton, A. McLeod, C. W. Stevens, W. A. Day, C. E. Tward.

Councillor Swinerton was appointed Deputy Mayor for the next three months. Dr. Brayton Medical Health Officer presented his report for the month, which showed a clean bill of health, no infectious diseases being reported. The usual monthly accounts were passed for payment. The report of the Western Canada Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association, of the inspection of the Town of Macleod in the month of April, was presented to the meeting and referred to the Fire Committee.

A great many recommendations are made in the report, in connection with the Waterworks, Fire Department and Structural Conditions. To carry out all the recommendations of the report, would require the outlay of an enormous sum of money, which it is very questionable, if the town of Macleod could handle it, even in its present prosperous position, and the expenditures would hardly be warranted in a town the size of Macleod.

The report shows that the Fire loss in the town of Macleod from the beginning of 1927 to the end of 1928, amounted to $11,175.00, and the number of fires 12. Two of the fires contributed to this loss about $10,000.00 each, one of that an elevator. The loss for this year 1929 to date amounts to $1,000.00 and there have been 2 fires. Quite a favourable record for two years.

and a half and a tribute to the efficiency of the Fire Brigade, even though the said report stated that the brigade is undermanned, and should be increased to twenty-five. The town council at a previous meeting decided to accept the offer of the Bitumuls Western Company Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C., to demonstrate their road material on the full block of the Main Street between 2nd and 3rd avenues. F. G. Thorpe the Company's representative has arrived in Macleod, and the work of treating the street will start today. Mr. Thorpe states that the Macleod Street has an ideal surface.

The Quaint Book of the 16th Century

In three hundred years the art of brewing became an important industry in England. First in the 13th Century brewing became known through the waters of Burton on Trent. Of the many books on the subject of Beer, one in particular deserves special mention. In 1573 H. Enart published a work in five volumes at Erfurt with the quaint title "On the Divine Noble Gift, the Philosophical High Dear and Wondrous Art to Brew Beer."

Today malt beverages, BEER — ALE — STOUT are considered Health Drinks.

TANKAGE FOR HOGS

Maximum development of the growing pig is not possible without a certain amount of protein and mineral matter being supplied in the feed. The cereal grains which form the basic ration for hogs are deficient in both protein and mineral matter. Skim-milk or buttermilk has been found to be the most satisfactory for supplying the needed protein and mineral matter in the ration. No substitute seems to give as good results, or combine in as available form, the elements necessary for optimum growth of bone and muscle.

This matter of protein and mineral supplements is of great importance in view of the fact that on many farms in Western Canada no skim-milk or buttermilk is available, or they are available in such small quantities as to render their good effects almost negligible when divided among the pigs being fed. When these are lacking what will take their place?

Of the various substitutes for skim-milk or buttermilk which have been tried in experiments at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, to date, tankage has given the best results. In fact, results have shown without exception that where skim-milk or buttermilk is not available throughout the year, tankage ranks very high as a substitute feed and should be fed as a supplement in a ration lacking milk. This is particularly the case where oats and barley are being fed. Pigs weighing between fifty and sixty pounds, when placed on a ration consisting of grain alone tend to become unthrifty and as a result make slow and comparatively expensive gains as compared with pigs whose rations are properly supplemented with the dairy by-products or tankage.

Many experiments could be cited to show the effect of using tankage when skim-milk or buttermilk is not available. In a test conducted during the summer of 1928, a group of pigs receiving a ration of oats and barley was compared with one receiving 8 per cent tankage in addition to this grain. Both lots were self-fed in dry lots. The results of this test in terms of dollars and cents, valuing oats at 55 cents per bushel and barley at 75 cents per bushel, show that while tankage cost $2.50 per hundred pounds it had an actual value of $12.97 per hundred pounds on the basis of grain saved. On the other hand, the results of a similar experiment conducted the same summer, except that both lots had access to good brambles pasture throughout the whole feeding period, showed tankage to have an actual value of only $2.77 per hundred pounds on the basis of grain saved. Apparently the home assisted in supplying the growth promoting food constituents.

Tankage is a protein and mineral rich supplement consisting mainly of sterilized, powdered meat and bone scraps and is for sale at most abattoirs and some feed stores. It may be fed in either of two ways. One is to expose the tankage in an open box or self-feeder in the pen and allow the pigs to help themselves, while receiving at the same time a satisfying ration of grain. The other system is to feed the tankage mixed with chop feed in a proportion of 5 to 10 per cent by weight of the total grain ration.

Remember Then That:

The business of a town is its very life-blood.

The stores and business houses are not alone for the merchants.

Prosperous merchants will make the community prosper. The more buyers there are in a town, the greater "turn over" the merchants will have, and thus the more they will be able to reduce prices and increase the quality of the goods they sell.
